Japs Admit Sea Losses

By The Associated Press

PEARL HARBOR, June 21—Giant battle fleets of the United States and Japan faced each other today in the 1500 miles between the Philippines and Marianas amid indications that preliminary blows already may have opened a history-shaking naval engagement.

Possibly the entire Japanese fleet has entered the area, Adm. Nimitz disclosed. It was the first report on the whereabouts of Nippon's long-sought navy since its crushing defeat at Midway in June, 1942.

Eager and ready for battle is the Fifth U. S. Fleet with "enough muscle to take care of everything" in the words of the confident commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet.

A Japanese naval spokesman was quoted in a Berlin broadcast today as saying Nippon's air and naval forces "have successfully engaged an American fleet" but Tokyo radio, in a broadcast to the homeland, quoted an imperial headquarters communique as acknowledging "we have suffered considerable losses of ships and planes."

(The Tokyo radio also asserted an American battleship listed in a Japanese communique yesterday as sunk by Japanese planes off the Marianas June 16 was of the 45,000-ton Iowa class.

CLAIM 2D BATTLESHIP

(The enemy broadcast, entirely without confirmation, said another battleship claimed to have been heavily damaged was of the 35,000-ton North Carolina class "and went down to a watery grave the night of June 15 off the Marianas."

("Two out of four United States aircraft carriers which were heavily damaged and set ablaze or left heavily listing the night of June 17," the broadcast went on, "were of the 24,000-ton Essex type, while another was of the 10,000-ton Independence type which had been converted from a cruiser. A fourth appeared to be also of the Essex type."

(London later picked up a Tokyo broadcast saying a fierce naval engagement was raging today off the Marianas. There was no confirmation from Pearl Harbor and no indication when Adm. Nimitz might have more to say about the operations.)

What may prove to have been the first preliminary blow of a showdown naval fight was struck Sunday from enemy aircraft car-

Reveals Dec. 17 Peace Feelers

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—The British government received information Dec. 17 regarding views allegedly expressed by a Nazi official on possible peace terms, but ignored it because it bore the marks of a typical German trick to sow distrust among the Allies, Foreign Sec. Eden told Commons today.

His brief statement was in reply to a member who asked what proposals were received about that time.

U. S. Fliers Bomb Carrier at Genoa

ROME, June 21 (AP)—Thunderbolts of the First Tactical Air Force severely damaged a 20,000-ton enemy aircraft carrier in the harbor of Genoa yesterday.

Costly Ride

CHICAGO, June 21 (INS)—Pvt. Lawrence Rosenblum, 20, didn't have a nickel to spare as he resumed his journey to his home in Troy, N. Y., today.

On furlough from Camp Grant, Ill., Rosenblum hitchhiked into Chicago with a motorist who before letting him out robbed him of all he had, $82.

"Gosh," said Rosenblum, "I'll never get hom now."

"What's the fare?" the robber asked.

Pvt. Rosenblum said $12. The bandit peeled off $12 of the soldier's own money and handed it back to him with a genial "good-by."

Fight Inside Cherbourg

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, June 21 (AP)—U. S. doughboys supported by heavy artillery and air bombardment today assaulted two key inner fortresses guarding Cherbourg—one less than a mile from the commercial docks — and fought house-to-house through the city's suburbs.

(An NBC broadcast from Normandy declared "our ground forces are moving into Cherbourg.")

A bulletin from supreme headquarters said the fall of Cherbourg appeared to be a matter of hours.

The power drive from the south hammered against Fort du Roule, on a hill at Cherbourg's outskirts and within a mile of the docks, and Fort Octeville, a little more than a mile to the west.

LAST DITCH NAZI STAND

Cherbourg's great military port area, now exploding under German demolitions, lies only two miles behind Fort Octeville.

The Germans were making a last ditch stand in these inner-ring fortresses.

Heavy fighting was reported in the built-up suburban section of France's third greatest port.

The assault upon the forts raced forward from St. Martin le-Greard, four miles south of Cherbourg, and advance units on the western flank drove to Acqueville, three to four miles west and slightly south of Cherbourg's city limits.

For du Roule, a major key to control of the besieged German stronghold, stands atop a 450-foot hill.

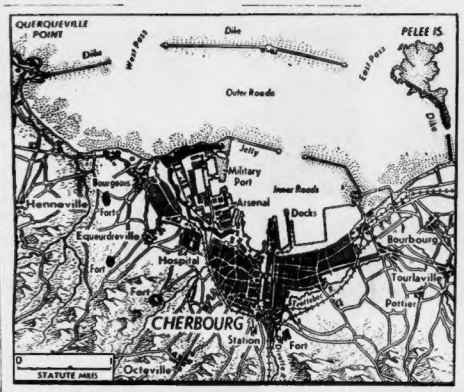
NAZIS WARNED

The Allied command in a broadcast urged the trapped enemy to surrender. The alternative, the spokesman warned, was death.

Once more Gen. Bradley was employing the battle technique he used so successfully in Tunisia in the capture of Bizerte. The veteran U. S. Ninth Division, which spearheaded the plunge into that stronghold, filled the same role again, battling into Cherbourg's defenses from the south, reaching the closest point so far reported.

Two avenues were available to the enemy garrison to withdraw from Cherbourg — northeastward to Cap Levy, or northwestward to the peninsula's tip at Cap de la Hague. American artillery was hurling shells into both roads.

French Patriot scouts, attired in oddly assorted uniforms, guided the Americans. They drifted into the American lines, begging to assist in the city's capture.



ALLIED OBJECTIVE—This is a closeup map of Cherbourg, the prize for which American forces are fighting today.

Shuttle Planes Pound Berlin

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—More than 1000 American Flying Fortresses and Liberators blasted Berlin today and the German radio indicated at least some of the planes flew on eastward—possibly in the first shuttle raid from Britain to new American bases in Russia.

The bomber fleet had an escort of around 1000 fighters, making a total force of some 2000 planes which carried the aerial war once more to the heart of the German homeland.

Basdorf, on Berlin's outskirts, also was blasted.

German broadcasts admitted damage and casualties and threatened to retaliate with "bigger and more powerful rocket bomb explosives."

First returning Liberator fliers said there was plenty of flak, but they did not see a single German fighter—a rare occurrence in raids on the hub of Germany.

Shuttle-bombing flights from Britain to Russia would complete the "ring of steel" thrown about Germany. Flights have been made already from Mediterranean bases to American air fields in Russia. Russia's frontier is 900 miles from England, easy range for Fortresses and Liberators.

Berlin broadcasts said the Hannover and Brunswick areas also had been attacked by the daylight raiders, but there was no immediate Allied confirmation.

At the same time big fleets of Allied planes were observed streaking out across Dover Strait and disappearing in the direction of the German rocket bomb bases.

Communique No. 31

By the Associated Press

Allied troops advancing on Cherbourg have reached prepared positions defending the deep water port.

Valognes, Les Pieux, Couville and Rauville La Bigot have been liberated.

In the Tilly area three German attacks have been held.

There has been active patrolling on all other sectors of the front.

Flying bomb sites in Pas de Calais, a coastal battery at Houlgate and gun positions on Cherbourg peninsula were targets for medium and fighter-bombers yesterday afternoon and evening.

Other fighter-bombers struck at locomotives, troop trains and railway installations in widespread areas of Northern France.

Preliminary reports show that 11 enemy aircraft were destroyed while four of ours are missing.

Last night light bombers attacked railway centers at Mezidon and Chartres and other enemy communications.

Night fighters destroyed two enemy aircraft.

Eden Tells Commons Of Turkey's Pledge

LONDON, June 21 (INS)—Turkey has promised the Allies she will forbid passage of German torpedo boats and E-boats through the Dardanelles in the future, Foreign Secretary Eden told the House of Commons today.

Red Army Moves for Helsinki

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—Victorious Russian troops who occupied Viipuri drove on today toward Finland's capital, Helsinki, where the Germans were reported exerting pressure to keep their small ally from suing for peace.

The Finnish radio urged all persons whose presence was not essential to evacuate Helsinki, which lies approximately 135 airline miles from Viipuri.

(Troops of the Red army are now fighting six miles beyond Viipuri, according to a London broadcast heard by CBS in New York.)

Twenty salvos from 224 guns boomed in Moscow last night following Stalin's order of the day announcing the fall of Viipuri after a smashing 11-day offensive.

The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said the Germans were endeavoring to block formation of a Finnish peace cabinet which Finns asserted would be formed very soon.

(London reported that a decree conferring "extraordinary powers" on the government of Finland, which is seriously threatened by onrushing Russian armies, was passed today by the Finnish Parliament, according to the Helsinki radio.)

All Clues Fail In Killer Hunt

The attacker and killer of 10-year-old Frances McGrath was still here today, a prowling threat to the society in which he moves, as Scituate and State Police began their 11th day of search with clue after clue petering out.

Police Chief Stewart of Scituate grimly continued to explore possibilities. Stewart, who has had more than a quarter of a century of police experience on the South Shore, including the Sacco-Vanzetti case, set out again today to run down a new lead.

He sought a man who hitherto has not been drawn into the probe, a Scituate resident. The chief admitted he had information he considered significant but would give no inkling of its nature.

CLUES PETER OUT

Also wanted for questioning is a 24-year-old Scituate man who drew considerable money from his bank account and disappeared a few days after the McGrath child vanished.

Witnesses have told police he was at the Scituate Harbor bowling alleys the Saturday night Frances McGrath walked out of them to her death.

Two matters at first considered important to the investigation, a Hanson automobile accident and the finding of a laundry check in the Norwell pine grove where the little girl's body was found June 16, have been dismissed from consideration.

The laundry check owner has been eliminated as a suspect. The automobile owner, who drove hurriedly away after crashing into a Hudson stone wall early June 11, has been identified as a girl.

SUSPECT RELEASED

A momentary suspect, a Scituate ex-soldier, picked up at Suffolk Downs by Boston police and held eight hours, has been released. He had been taken in on a tip from a Worcester man who later was found to have a reputation for making unfounded statements to police.

In addition to the man especially sought by Chief Stewart today, two others are wanted for questioning.

Stewart and state detectives are looking for a Scituate man whose frequent public boast is the pine grove murder spot has served him as a rendezvous for romance a long time.

Also hunted is a man who makes frequent automobile use of

Bail Denied Honor Boy as Girl-Killer

SPRINGFIELD, June 21—The 15-year-old lad chosen by his Forest Park Junior High School classmates as the "all-American boy" today stood in district court and with a nonchalant "yeah" waived examination on a charge of the first degree murder of Carolyn Bennett, 14, a fellow student.

WILLIAM ROACH
Held Without Bail in Murder

William Roach, calm and composed, showed no emotion as the court clerk read the serious charge. The courtroom was crowded with friends, relatives and classmates as Roach was arraigned.

He was held without bail for the September grand jury.

His uncle, Asst. Principal S. Everett Cook of the school where Roach was an outstanding student, sat with the youngster's aunt, Mrs. Cook, a teacher in another Springfield school.

STEP-FATHER ABSENT

The youth stood alone at the arraignment which took place only a few hours before the graduation exercises of Forest Park School at which he was to have been acclaimed as the student best typifying the All-American Boy.

His step-father, Herbert Johnson, a prominent Wisconsin manufacturer, did not appear in court.

RECALL CLASS BOOK

School authorities banned the class book which gave high praise of Roach as the All-American Boy. Copies which had been given out were ordered returned and further distribution was stopped.

Before he was returned to the city jail, the young defendant told newsmen he was sleeping and eating well in confinement.

Police charged that Roach shot and killed Miss Bennett because "she was seeing other fellows." The girl's body was found in Forest Park June 13.

33 Years Wed, Suing Wife Tells of Gunplay, Knife Row

After 33 years of marriage, Mrs. Nora Higgins of Mattapan sought separate support from Augustus Higgins in Suffolk Probate Court today, declaring her marital troubles dated back 26 years when her husband fired a bullet into her arm in a fit of temper.

The bad temper, Mrs. Higgins told Judge Wilson, was caused by her young sister's refusal to shine his shoes. And from that time on, the wife testified, her husband, fortified by frequent doses of whisky, was often abusive.

"He would get mad and drink a quart of whisky and berate me for hours," Mrs. Higgins said. "On one occasion he told me to get out of the house or he would kill us both.

"I left and went to the home of my married daughter, and later I sent for my sewing machine, which cost $169. My husband came after it, disconnected it, lifted it on his back, threw it down a flight of 14 stairs and wrecked it."

On another occasion, Mrs. Higgins testified, her husband came to their daughter's home and broke down the door with a 14-pound sledge hammer.

"I found him standing over me with a knife and he said he'd run it through me if I didn't come home," the wife said. "We all got cut up trying to get the knife away from him. When my son-in-law called police my husband dived out the window."

U. S. Flier Bags 4 Buzz-Bombs

AT RAF FRONTLINE BASE IN ENGLAND, June 21 (INS)—Allied pilots are demonstrating the superiority of mind over matter in attacking the "brainless airpower" robot planes.

The robot, flying fast and level, has a highly-maneuverable opponent in the Tempest, one of Britain's crack fighters. Already one squadron of these planes has brought down 47 robots.

High man is American pilot officer Buck Feldman of Brooklyn, N. Y. He's nipped off four and shares one robot.

"I would rather fight a plane with a man in it," Feldman said.

NEW YORK, June 21 (INS)—German pilotless planes, according to a British broadcast heard by NBC, were employed today against Scotland as well as southern England.

The German radio asserted destruction by the robot bombs "has caused King George to flee London."

South Africa Woman Here for Operation

After a 10,000-mile trip through sub-infested waters, Mrs. J. Gordon Davis of Johannesburg, South Africa, was at Massachusetts General Hospital today, scheduled to undergo a major operation.

She made the journey with her husband. Several times their ship dropped depth charges on Nazi subs.

Snow in Vt.

NEWPORT, Vt., June 21 (AP)—It may be the first day of summer to the rest of the United States, but they're still throwing snowballs in this town.

Bricker Men Hit Dewey Retreat

Republican leaders at Chicago started work today on drafting a platform designed to help put their candidate in the White House—a candidate the party chairman says will be named by next Wednesday.

NO ROOMS—Dorothy Larson of Columbus, O., prettles up as she waits for hotel accommodations after arriving in Chicago to work in the campaign headquarters of Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Associated Press Wirephoto

That is the third day of the party's national convention which starts Monday; Chairman Harrison E. Spangler settled on it in a prediction there will be no balloting deadlock.

For the various campaign headquarters of presidential possibilities, meanwhile, there continued to flow expressions of praise for their men.

Roy D. Moore, for Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, said "the responsible leaders of the Dewey forces are, as convention time nears, retreating from" what Moore called fantastic claims.

J. Russel Sprague, for Dewey commented "We are confident of the results."

Victor Johnson, for Lt. Com. Harold E. Stassen, said the former Minnesota governor "is the only one who talks" the language of voters under 40 in and out of the service.

Also in Chicago, the anti-fourth term organization American Democratic National Committee voted to call a convention of all organizations opposed to the renomination of President Roosevelt.

It voted down a once-approved recommendation that the Republicans nominate a coalition ticket such as Bricker and Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democratic Senator.

Other political developments:

Supporters in Congress of Rep. Everett Dirksen of Illinois announced they would present his name to the Republican convention for the vice presidential nomination.

Dirksen said in an NBC radio speech last night that the Roosevelt Administration has started "collectivism on the march" in America.

Bricker will be tendered the vice presidential nomination in order to insure harmony within the party for the November campaign. This would explain the confident talk coming from Bricker headquarters in Chicago when a Dewey victory appears imminent.

ROOSEVELT KIN SAFE FROM NAZIS—Mrs. Margaret Roosevelt Pallavicini, a cousin of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and her daughter, Julia, 6, rest in hotel in Rome, Italy, after returning to city following its occupation by Allies. Sought by Gestapo and Fascist police, she and her daughter escaped by hiding in a convent. Her husband, Allessandro, took refuge in Vatican City.

NEW YORK, June 21 (INS)—Employers were empowered today to serve free coffee, tea, milk, soft drinks or any other form of "nutritious refreshments" to employes up to the value of 10 cents.

Bad Liquor Sale Charges Aired

Details of the transaction in which a Lowell cafe owner charges she bought "rotten" liquor at above OPA ceiling prices were revealed to a federal court jury today at the trial of Charles M. Fauci, Boston and Medford wholesale liquor dealer.

Mrs. Margaret J. Roach, operator of a Bridge st., Lowell, cafe, testified that during the pre-Christmas shortage she purchased liquor from Fauci which was of such poor quality she has been unable to sell it.

Her testimony was given in Federal court before Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., and a jury in the trial of Fauci who is charged with improperly collecting $8000 by selling liquor at prices in excess of OPA ceilings. The ceiling price was $29.18 per case but Mrs. Roach said she paid $42 for it.

First she bought two cases from Fauci for $44, she said, and then later 350 cases. She obtained a loan of $15,000 from a bank in Lowell and accompanied by an inspector of police brought the money in small bills in a paper bag to Boston to consummate the sale.

Under cross-examination by Francis T. Leahy, counsel for Fauci, Mrs. Roach admitted having signed the invoices without reading them. She said she was not aware that the invoices bore the legal prices on each lot but supposed they were authorizations for withdrawal of liquor from a warehouse.

Honor Student Held as Evader

Lawrence M. Stickney, 18, of Charles st., Wakefield, honor student at Wakefield High School, today faced Federal Court for alleged failure to report for a selective service assignment.

He was arrested by FBI agents at Naples, Me., after he failed to report at a civilian public service camp at Elmira, N. Y. Agents said he had been working at a hotel under the alias of Merrill Mefford.

Stickney, who wrote the class song, returned carfare and meal money advanced by his Wakefield draft board with the notation: "I want to go away and work out my own life with a free conscience."

Poll Shows Dewey Winner With 700 on First Ballot

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, June 21 (INS)—A coast-to-coast survey of Republican delegations shows today that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York will be nominated for the Presidency on the first ballot at the convention next week.

Gov. Dewey has a minimum total of 700 votes in the convention. Only 530 are required for a clear majority and nomination.

The poll was taken among Republican convention officials, delegation members, state leaders, members of Congress and national committeemen. Every doubtful vote was given to Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, who runs a poor second, or placed in the undeclared column.

It is wholly possible for Dewey to get more than 800 votes on the first ballot.

The poll showed as of today the following voting on the first ballot:

Dewey, 700 votes; Bricker, 190 votes; Harold L. Stassen of Minnesota, 36 votes; Simeon S. Willis of Kentucky, 23 votes; Dwight Griswold of Nebraska, 6 votes; Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, 3 votes; Douglas MacArthur of Wisconsin, 3 votes; undeclared delegates, 29. Grand total: 1038.

The poll was made without consulting anybody in either the Dewey or Bricker headquarters. There are some disputed totals among the delegations but the confidential declarations of state leaders were accepted over claims of rival headquarters.

This certainty of Dewey's nomination on the first ballot is known among most party leaders and attention now is turning definitely to the second place choice.

Belief prevails in many Washington G. O. P. circles that Gov.

Permit for Making Whisky Called Blow To Bootleggers

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—Members of the Senate's liquor shortage investigating committee today applauded the War Production Board announcement that whisky making will be resumed for a month but urged that stricter government controls be placed on distribution to offset "bootleggers" and "black marketeers."

The WPB said yesterday that alcohol would be released for the manufacture of 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 gallons of 86-90 proof blended whisky, about one-fourth a normal year's supply.

Easing of the industrial alcohol situation was given as the reason the whisky will be manufactured during the month of August.

From Rep. Bryson (D.) of South Carolina, author of a long-pending wartime prohibition bill, came this statement:

"It is tragic that at a time when we are trying to feed not only our own people but the people of other nations we should use vital substances for liquor."

In New York, Kenneth S. Baxter, executive director of the Conference of Alcoholic Beverage Industries, said "the only people to whom it will not be good news are black marketeers and bootleggers who have fattened on the whisky shortage."

Maverick Tells Hub Little-Plant Plans

Calling for re-conversion of small plants to peacetime manufacturing before big industries, Chairman Maury Maverick of the Smaller War Plants Corp., today outlined a six-point program designed to ease the shift from war work to normal activities.

Meverick arrived in Boston to address the dinner and conference of Smaller Business Ass'n of New England, Inc., in the Copley-Plaza Friday night, He will speak at Smith College today.

"Re-conversion should be started in small plants first because they are the hardest hit by war," Maverick declared.

"Big companies are trying to get first place on the basis that their distribution and sales facilities are intact. To hell with that theory, they should be last."

TELLS HIS PROGRAM

Maverick's program listed these points:

Contract termination.
Disposal of surplus property.
Reconversion.
Financing.
Technical advice and assistance.
Taxation.

He said the first three points were for the postwar transition period and the remainder as a permanent policy.

For financing of little business, Maverick proposed "something along the lines of the Federal Housing Administration." Release of 45,000 alien patents seized by the government was urged to help small plants.

WOULD KEEP PATENTS

"Those patents should be released to Americans not turned back to our enemies for them to use against us in the future," he said.

Maverick said the excess profits exemption should be raised from $10,000 to $50,000" so little business can get started and stay started." He said the present limit allowed nothing to be set aside for postwar expansion.

The fiery Texas former Congressman declared any small plant which has completed its war contract should be permitted to go ahead and manufacture peacetime articles immediately.

"Let the small plants begin manufacturing kitchenware, percolators, garden tools and other things of which there is a desperate shortage," he suggested.

Sen. James E. Murray of Montana, chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, also will address the conference which is held in cooperation with the OPA and Smaller War Plants Corp.

Prosecution Calls Final Witness at Noxon Trial

By PAULINE WARREN

PITTSFIELD, June 21—Dr. Joseph T. Walliker, State chemist, today was called as the 30th and final prosecution witness in the trial of wealthy John F. Noxon, Jr., charged with murder in the electrocution-death of his baby son, Lawrence.

With the State promising a speedy wind-up, it was expected that Walter R. Donovan, a member of the defense staff, would make the opening address in behalf of the defendant this afternoon.

Earlier, Dr. Albert C. England, Berkshire County medical examiner who examined the body of the Noxon infant an hour after its death, was called to the stand by Dist. Atty. Charles R. Alberti. Dr. England assisted Dr. Alan R. Moritz in the official autopsy.

He testified that during his visit to the Noxon home with Dr. George P. Hunt, the family physician, Noxon had failed to tell him that he had placed the baby on a wet metal tray while he went to his garage to procure tools to fix his radio.

GRILLED BY ELY

Dr. England's testimony followed completion of a three-day ordeal for Dr. Moritz, who was under a gruelling cross-examination by former Gov. Joseph B. Ely, chief defense counsel, during the morning session.

The questions centered about the small so-called "punctate" wounds found on the Noxon baby's arms. It is the contention of the prosecution the wounds were made by Noxon, who deliberately fastened a clamp to the child's arm in order to insert into the skin the exposed wires of a radio ground cord.

CLAIM BY DEFENSE

The defense claims the marks were made either by a Shick test injection the baby had received on the morning of his death, or by arcing or "sparking," due to an electric shock.

Dr. Moritz admitted under questioning that if the baby had thrown one arm over the other, due to the electric shock, and if the arcing had occurred, small pin wounds similar to the marks on the arm might have been inflicted.

Mrs. Higginson At Crisis Point

A crisis was expected today in the condition of Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Jr., 31, victim of a bludgeoning which has left her in a coma since last Friday.

The critically ill socialite is at New England Deaconess Hospital, where her case is in the hands of the Lahey Clinic.

A spokesman for the clinic reported she is being given frequent blood transfusions, "but her future still is uncertain."

Mrs. Higginson, attractive brunette wife of socialite Lt. Com. Higginson, USN, member of the prominent Boston banking family, was attacked by an unknown intruder into her West Cornwall, Ct., home, just after she returned from a party late Thursday night.

Loss of Ticket, $85 Mars GI's Honeymoon

The honeymoon of Pvt. Aime Hebert of Attleboro and the bride he took last Saturday would be a lot happier today if someone would come forward with his return ticket to his base in Florida.

It would help, too, if the same someone would return $85 in cash which also was in a pocketbook lost by the bride during a Boston shopping trip. The couple appealed to the Red Cross for temporary aid.

Uncle Sam May Finally Get $27,200 Left in N. Y. Taxicab

NEW YORK, June 21 (AP)—It seems as if everyone, the government, the city and Frank Costello, slot machine operator, wants the $27,200 Edward Waters found in his taxicab last week.

Waters, the honest cabbie who turned the two rolls of $100 and $50 notes over to the police, is reasonably sure of his reward.

George Wolf, attorney for Costello who says he left the money in the taxi, has assured the driver his client will not go back on his promise of a $3500 reward in war bonds, no matter who gets the disputed money in the bank.

As Waters quietly remained on the sidelines, Costello was having his headaches.

He proceeded with a supreme court action of replevin, seeking to force the city to recognize his claim for the money which police refused to give him on the grounds he had not proved it had been obtained legally, as required by a local law.

He also faced a claim by the Department of Internal Revenue which served two tax liens, totaling $33,711, against Costello on the police department.

The liens were for taxes and penalties the government claims Costello and his wife owe, according to Deputy Police Commr. Vincent E. Finn.

Truman Group Joins Fight on Canol Funds

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP)—Senators on the Truman committee joined today in a fight to strike from the $49,107,785,795 War Department appropriations bill two-thirds of what they termed a secret allowance of $16,439,688 for the United States-financed Canol oil development in Canada.

Saying the appropriation for Canol was not disclosed to the appropriations committee in its hearings on the bill, Sen. Ferguson (R.) of Michigan, declared he would tell "the whole story" on the floor today.

Furnishings in Palatial Widener Home Auctioned

PHILADELPHIA, June 21 (AP)—A white marble showplace of Victorian elegance was slowly stripped of its costly furnishings today, every clack of the auctioneer's hammer detracting from the glory that once was Lynnewood Hall.

"What am I offered?"

The auctioneer's words echoed through the gilded ballroom where anyone with the price could claim the bronzes, the crystal chandeliers, the intricate tapestries that surrounded Joseph E. Widener, financier, turfman and art connoisseur, until his death last october.

More than $50,000 was bid yesterday with some of the most expensive furnishings—such as a nine-piece Louis XV carved and gilded tapestry suite designed for the royal palace at Versailles—all to be sold before the auction ends Saturday.

Highest bid to date has been $200, which took a pair of bronze fire andirons. Three glittering chandeliers went to a Philadelphia tearoom proprietor for $425 apiece.

Samuel T. Freeman & Co., the auctioneer, declined to place a value on the more than 1000 items, which range from elaborately monogrammed pots and pans to tapestries from the Italian marble walls of the dining room.

But few if any "bargains" were in the offing. A small, eager woman bid $25 for a Russian silver and enamel coffee service small enough to fit in her handbag. It finally sold for $800.

Judge Raps Medical Group on Lobbying

Special To The Boston American

CHICAGO, June 21—The American Medical Ass'n stood branded today as a propaganda and lobbyist organization in a ruling by Judge Michael Feinberg

The ruling was made at the conclusion of a court fight over the AMA's refusal to pay unemployment compensation and old age pension benefits for 653 of its employes.

Judge Feinberg held that, because the AMA participated in propaganda activities and discussions of laws and prospective legislation, it was not exclusively a scientific and educational organization which would exempt it from provisions of the state and federal social security acts.

The judge ordered dismissal of a writ of certiorari requested by the AMA against the Illinois department of labor, reviewing its finding that AMA was not exempt from social security payments to a former employe, George Such, who worked as a pressman for the association during 1939.

Unless the AMA appeals, it is liable for the payment of more than $500,000 in back social security payments for its employes since 1937.

Citing the recent attack upon Sister Elizabeth Kenny's treatment of infantile paralysis by the AMA, Daniel D. Carmell, noted labor lawyer who represented Such, charged the association was as concerned with promoting the financial interests of the medical profession as in its scientific and educational work.

Writer to Fly With Wounded

William Randolph Hearst, Junior, intimately describes his flight with the Air Force Command Branch, Ninth Air Force, engaged in evacuating our wounded by air from the battlefields of France to hospitals in England.

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, JUNIOR
Publisher, New York Journal-American

LONDON, June 21—Last week I flew over France for a couple of hours.

The other day, I landed there, but for even a shorter length of time than my initial two-hour stay. It came about this way.

Long before D-Day various branches of the armed forces on the one hand, and members of the press on the other, made specific arrangements for covering the invasion.

Some went over on D-Day, some even were dropped by parachute the night before, while still others were allowed to go over later, but all on a prearranged schedule.

Having arrived from the Italian front only a few days before the invasion of France started, I was lucky to be included in the group flying about the country on D-Day, stopping at various airports and talking to fliers just returned from parachutists going over in the second wave.

A few days later I wangled a ride on a bombing mission.

FLIGHT OKAYED

Then the other day, I heard that they had begun evacuating the wounded by air, so I contacted public relations on the Ninth Air Force and got permission to fly over to one of the landing strips in France and return with a full load of wounded.

I left London, went to the airfield and was flown to the field in England operated by the Air Service Command branch of the Ninth Air Force.

A certain number of their planes, the old reliable Douglas C-47's, have been pressed into service evacuating our wounded.

We took off at 10:15 in the morning. The crew was made up of Pilot Lt. McElroy Nangle from Orlando, Fla., with Capt. H. W. Groseclose, of Kingsport, Tenn., flying as co-pilot, and Lt. Jay N. Holliday, of Los Angeles doing the navigating.

Cpl. John N. Jefers of Indianapolis was radio operator and T-Sgt. Leonard E. McCrary of Oklahoma was the engineer. Completing the crew was Nurse Lt. Marin L. Hemmesch, of New Rockford, N. D., and a non-commissioned officer from the Medical Corps, S.-Sgt. Walter C. Balasa, from Philadelphia.

We picked up the coast of France just a little to the east of Cherbourg, and flew south along the Cherbourg peninsula until it turns eastward, keeping about a mile off shore.

As the coastline curved around to the left, so did we, flying lower as we approached to the spot where we were to land. Friendly fighter planes flew around guarding us, as we carried no guns.

Now up ahead we made out the landing strip that was our destination.

It was a tricky landing as there was about a 30-mile-an-hour wind blowing inshore at right angles. Nangle slipped the ship down and skillfully straightened it out 20 feet off the ground just over the beginning of the runway, but the wind kept us buoyed up a little too long as we came in.

For a few seconds I didn't know whether he was going to go around again or set it down.

AT UP DISTANCE

He chose the latter course but by the time we hit the ground, we covered about half the runway and were eating up the distance between ourselves and a canyon at the end.

Nangle was standing up on the brakes but it soon became apparent he was not going to be able to stop in time.

Only one thing remained to be done. He ground-looped the ship, in other words, skidded her around. It is a trick maneuver, but he did it very well, and while I had the feeling we were going to tip over and dig a wing in the ground, we got away with it without damage.

It was an odd feeling stepping out of the plane onto French soil. The landing strip was on a bluff above the beach and we stopped right on the rim of it.

I was sorely tempted to skip ship and spend a few days there but I had given my word that I would return on this flight. So for the next hour, I roamed around to see what I could see.

In tomorrow's Boston American, William Randolph Hearst, Junior, will describe how the wounded are carefully transferred from ambulances to the planes.

Bulgarians Kill U. S. Flier as He Bails Out

Eighth Army Drives Nazis From Perugia

By LYNN HEINZERLING

ROME, June 21 (AP)—Eighth Army veterans have hurled the last stubborn Nazi defenders out of ancient Perugia, communications hub 85 miles north of Rome, and advanced four miles north of the city, Allied headquarters said today.

The Allied drive still was in steady motion, although the Germans had thrown elements of seven divisions against the right flank of the Fifth Army's front in an effort to slow its pace. But the Fifth fought through four more villages, making what headquarters termed "minor tactical gains."

It was disclosed that the Fifth Army has taken prisoners from the 19th Luftwaffe division, which left Belgium June 10, four days after the invasion of France began.

This was the second German division diverted from the western front since the Allies' spectacular advance in Italy began, the 20th Luftwaffe division having arrived from Denmark. Prisoners also have been taken in the same general area from the 16th SS division, brought here from the Balkans.

Tactical aircraft flew 750 sorties yesterday over the battle area and all returned.

After clearing the university city of Perugia, Eighth Army troops headed after the withdrawing Germans in several directions. They soon occupied high ground northwest of the city. Forward elements northeast of Perugia reached a point five miles from the city.

the road between Scituate and Norwell, where the killer drove to leave Frances McGrath in death.

State police, who earlier disclosed they had found fingerprints on the lacquered handle of the child's handbag, remained mum about their findings today.

Thus far, the prints have been considered the most tangible clue, but Chief Stewart said he had not been advised whether the fingers that left them were those of a man, woman or child.

REWARDS TOTAL $2500

An additional reward of $1000 was made by a Scituate resident for the apprehension and conviction of the slayer, or slayers of the girl, and deposited with the Rockland Trust Co., bringing the total rewards to $2500. The donor is the father of four children.

The Record-American-Sunday Advertiser has a standing reward of $1500, of which $1000 was offered by these papers for exclusive information leading to the apprehension of the slayer and $500 by a reader, whose name is held in confidence.

A 17-year-old Cohasset youth, with a record of molesting little girls, was questioned for two hours by Scituate police and released.

At the same time, in Boston, State detectives questioned members of a group of girls who were at the Scituate bowling alley on the evening of Saturday, June 10, when Frances McGrath was last seen alive.

riers. Their planes, flying from the direction of the Philippines by way of Guam and Rota in the Marianas, paid a frightful cost of 300 aircraft in trying unsuccessfully to sink U. S. carriers and battleships of the invasion fleet. Last night, Nimitz told a press conference that not one combat ship was sunk.

HINTS OPENING CLASH

Then the admiral issued an electrifying hint that the enemy blow was paid back with success Monday. He said criptically it was possible that damage was inflicted on elements of the enemy fleet that day.

Nimitz assured a press conference the Fifth Fleet packs sufficient "power to be favorable to us in a decisive engagement," even if it is massed more than 1000 miles beyond the U. S. advance naval base in the Marshalls and 3800 miles from Pearl Harbor.

"We hope the Jap fleet will stay in that (Philippines) area," he said.

"As long as they stay, we have a chance to get at them."

Ready to figure in a decisive naval engagement is an "unsinkable carrier," the 3600-foot Aslito airdrome captured by marines and soldiers who now control the entire southern part of Saipan which they invaded June 14.

Also ready to send land-based bombers into action is the air arm of Gen. MacArthur. His planes are poised within bombing range of the Philippines and adjacent ocean areas at captured airfields on Biak in the Schouten Islands off North Dutch New Guinea.

Nimitz emphasized he had expected Japan's violent reaction at Saipan because it is in the last island defense line before China and the Philippines.

He expressed conviction Japan no longer possesses the naval strength to use the Marianas for an offensive

Japs Trying to Plug Leaks in Inland Defense

By Associated Press

On its land front Japan today was engaged in a great effort to plug the leaks in its defensive dikes.

Beyond captured Changsha in China its army of more than 50,000 men pushed southward along the Hankow-Canton railroad. The enemy aimed at making this line a barrier against the rising tide of Allied power, in effect cutting off eastern China from the Allies.

Chinese who lost the fourth battle for vital Changsha fled the city and Japanese columns swept down the railroad to within 65 miles of Hengyang, about 100 miles southwest of the Hunan capital. Hengyang would go a long way toward making good the Japanese offensive.

The Saipan invasion went well. Nimitz announced "our troops now hold the entire southern portion of the island" including the western shore of Magicienne bay and Aslito airdrome.

Vast stores of oil, munitions and stores were uncovered on the island, proving Saipan was the main stronghold of the enemy in the Marianas. Japanese civilians were reported coming through American lines for safety.

Gen. MacArthur's men threw the enemy out of two more Biak island airdromes, thus setting up another threat to Japan's defenses.

In Burma Lt. Gen. Stilwell's forces slowly closed in on Mogaung and Myitkyina, bases he needs to reopen the Burma road. British forces further pushed back Japanese troops once threatening Imphal and Kohima in eastern India.

Chiang Thanks U. S. for Aid At Fete Honoring Wallace

By SPENCER MOOSA

CHUNGKING, June 21 (AP)—A general system of collective security, backed if necessary by an adequate international force, was urged by President Chiang Kai-shek tonight at a brilliant state banquet given by him and Mrs. Chiang in honor of Vice-President Wallace.

Assuring the visiting American China wishes to live in good neighborliness, harmony and peace with all nations, the generalissimo said:

"We respect the integrity and independence of every nation. We dream no dreams of domination. We have no territorial ambitions."

The Chinese believe, he said, in an ever-increasing co-operation with other countries in matters economic, financial, cultural and political, "and in the development of our industry and our immense natural resources we will welcome foreign investment and foreign technicians."

He asked Wallace to take back the message to President Roosevelt, the American Congress and the people that the people of China deeply appreciated the moral and material support America has accorded China, and that China is as determined as America in destroying the forces of aggression, in establishing an enduring world peace and in promoting the welfare of mankind.

The state banquet at the presidential villa followed a tour in which Wallace met "Young China," rubbing shoulders with cheering students whom he told to "work for the day when all the people of China can read and write."

Norway Puts O. K. On Gen. de Gaulle

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—The Norwegian government today announced recognition of Gen. de Gaulle's committee of national liberation as "the body qualified to conduct and lead the French war effort within the framework of inter-Allied co-operation and also preserve and protect all French interests."

Meanwhile, the London Daily Star predicted after Cherbourg has been captured the United States and Great Britain will recognize De Gaulle's organization as the French provisional government.

30 Nazi Prisoners Work on Cape Farms

FALMOUTH, June 21—Thirty German prisoners of war were at work today picking strawberries on farms here, guarded by military police.

They are expected to aid materially in harvesting the crop which threatened to decay on bushes as a result of the labor shortage.

Britain, U. S. Talk Over Peace Setup

LONDON, June 21 (AP)—Britain and the United States have exchanged ideas on a world peace setup as recently suggested by President Roosevelt, but the stage of making a decision has not yet been reached, Deputy Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee told Commons today.

If you are one of these unfortunate people, here is important information for you to know. Many people suffering from nagging arthritis pains in back, knees, shoulders and hands, never suspect that these pains may be caused, in some cases, by excessive acids within the body.

As a dietary aid in the faster neutralization of these excessive acids, which in turn may tend to bring speedier pain relief to this extent, Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets were devised by a well-known food nutritionist. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets contain food sodium and food iodine, two minerals of nutritional value which may prove to be helpful to many arthritis sufferers. Vig-Ore Sodeom Tablets are free from all harmful chemical drugs. They positively do not contain injurious ingredients of any kind.

Bank Employes Aid In War Loan Drive

The banks and securities houses of Boston's financial district are playing an important part in the campaign to reach Massachusetts' quota in the Fifth War Loan, the Treasury Department disclosed today in announcing that 4000 or their employes are volunteer bond sellers, at work on the goal of $50,000,000 in bond sales to individuals.

In the first week of the drive the state has reached 15.2 per cent of its $112,000,000 quota, War Finance Committee officials disclosed. State E bond sales reported to date total $17,110,000.

In the Greater Boston area drive for purchase of LST's from E bond sale proceeds, the Metropolitan district reports volume for its first week of $11,348,000. This means that in the Greater Boston region, E bond volume has nearly paid for six LST's, figured at $2,000,000 each.

Greater efforts by volunteer workers and prompt returns from issuing agents were urged by F. W. Denio, chairman of the state war finance committee.

"We still have a long way to go," Denio declared. "The goal never will be reached without a lot of hard work on everyone's part.

The all-service show of 86 men and women, "Direct Hit," returned to Massachusets today for an appearance in Southbridge after a brief stay in Connecticut. Tomorrow the troupe visits Fall river.

Hull in Retort To Lyttelton

WASHINGTON, June 21 (AP) —America in the months preceding Pearl Harbor was following "the single policy of self-defense," State Secretary Hull declared in rebuttal to what he termed an entirely erroneous assertion by Britain's production minister.

The British minister, Capt. Oliver Lyttelton, today in an apology told Commons he had no intention of saying yesterday that American lend-lease aid to Britain had forced Japan into attacking the United States.

He added that "any misunderstanding is entirely my own fault."

The remarks attributed to Lyttelton were made at a luncheon of the American Chamber of Commerce in London.

Lyttelton earlier released his own version of the interpolation but it contained no reference to this quotation ascribed to him by two American reporters at the luncheon: "It is a travesty of history to say that America was forced into war."

Ex-Newsies Found Serving in Britain

By HUCK FINNEGAN

ENGLAND—The Boston American gets around, and the boys who sell it get around, too. Since debarking on this foreign strand, we have met three soldiers from Greater Boston whose "Extra! Extra! Read all about it" gave them pocket money in their younger days.

They are Pvt. William Berkowitz, 87 Bloomingdale st., Chelsea; Pvt. Barko Alessi, 360 Harrison ave., Boston, and Pvt. James Montemagno, 75 Endicott st., North End.

Berkowitz used to peddle papers for his uncle, Joe Goulston, called "Arco," at the corner of Federal and High sts., opposite United Shoe. Alessi worked for the late Whitney Weinrub at Dover st.'s Canada Point. ("I knew Cy Murphy, too.") Montemagno sold 'em for Charlie Brickel, at the corner of Bromfield and Tremont.

MOVED TO ALLSTON

Berkowitz, 29, used to put in his time in Al Lacey's pool room before he married Frances Dietrich of Revere seven years ago. Now he's a thriving ragman with a shop at 171 Second st., Chelsea. They moved to 181 Allston st., Allston, so that Bill might attend Brighton High Night School, and he graduated.

Louis K. Arsenian
Chelsea

Pvt. Michael Manoogian
Back Bay

Meanwhile a son was born to them—Jerome Melvin—now 19 months. Bill's parents, David and Dora, still live in Chelsea. "Is Johnny Orlando (also Chelsea) still with the Red Sox?" Bill asked.

Alessi, 28 in July, lived in Somerville and attended Somerville High, but after marriage to Sally Peters, a South End girl, he moved to 360 Harrison ave. They have a son, Peter Michael, 10 months. Later they moved out to Glenville ave., Allston, while Barko welded at the Navy Yard. Sally has gone back to the South End since Barko's induction. Frank Alessi, Barko's father, still lives at 4 Beacon st., Somerville.

Montemagno is a baby-faced boy of 20, who married boxer Tony Peppi's sister, Laura. He graduated from Mechanic Arts in '40, and worked as a welder at Hingham before entering the Army. His parents, Guy and Rose, live at 78 Woodlawn st., Everett.

CHUM OF MARGOLIAN

Pvt. Michael Manoogian, 64 Hemingway st., Back Bay, never sold Americans, but used to chum around with Capt. Leo Margolian, son of circulation chief, Charlie Mungie.

"Is it true that Leo's a prisoner of war?" asks Mike. "Too bad. Gee, we had a lot of fun together at Steuben's on Boylston st. My uncle Bart (168 West Newton st.) knows the Margolians well."

Mike was born on Fairy st., Malden, worked for years at various Liggett stores, danced nights at the old Press Cafe on Otis st., before shifting to a Portland shipyard, and marrying Geraldine Fifield of Cape Elizabeth, Me. Geraldine's now waitressing in Jack Brown's Casa Manana on Huntington ave.

Then there's Nello Rossi, 557 Second st., Everett, who went to Blackington School in East Boston with the Daily Record's Art Director, Mel Massucco.

"I used to live at 87 Layden st., East Boston, same street as Mel," said Rossi. "In fact, my folks (Andrew and Adele) still live there." His father and Anthony Petruzzi have a dine and dance spot at 557 Second st., Everett, and Nello, wife Linda, and 22 months daughter, Virginia, make their home there.

Rossi sold meat 15 years for the North East Packing Co., North st., Boston, before induction. He's somewhat disappointed at being with the ground troops because he learned to fly at the East Boston airport before the war. But he's 37, and there wasn't much he could do about it.

"I'd call everything square for a good dish of chicken cacciatore," he says.

Smallest soldier we've encountered overseas is 37-year-old Louis K. Arsenian, 67 Sixth st., Chelsea. Louis lacks one-half-inch of reaching the five-foot mark, yet was head counterman at the Apollo Restaurant at 492 Broadway, Chelsea. ("What did you do, stand on a box?" asked his mates.)

Louis is a good-natured tyke who takes a lot of kidding, but he's happy in the Army "because nobody's trying to put me on the cuff."

"Will you drop a line to my boss, Ted Aragnoosian, and tell him I was asking for the boys. Yes, even the cuffers?"

"I STOPPED DOSING MY CONSTIPATION A YEAR AGO!"

Says Happy KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN User

If you are still dosing your constipation, don't fail to read this unsolicited letter!

"I'd been troubled with common constipation for years. Tried many kinds of medicines for it. Then, just about a year ago, I tried KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN. I ate it regularly, without missing a day. It helped so much, I have not taken one dose of medicine for constipation since, nor have I confined myself to any diet!" Mr. S. P. Loebe, Charleston, Missouri.

Sounds like magic, doesn't it? But, scientists say, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation — lack of dietary "cellulosic" elements—because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements! They help the friendly colonic flora fluff up and prepare the colonic contents for easy elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative! Doesn't "sweep you out"! It's a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If you have constipation of this kind, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't find real relief. Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

PETERMAN'S ANT FOOD

Zareh INC. 25 STATE ST.

Years and years ago when I owned a haberdashery shop in Harvard Square (the "Harvardashery", get it?) I pined for the Big Time such as a shop in New York or Chicago. I was fed up selling the same old grey flannel slax and brown tweed jackets year after year, and dreamed of a spot where someone might possibly want a green and blue combination once in a while or maybe even a job in mauve and taupe. Well, time and Ivar Kreuger upset that dream a bit but I did manage to open up in Boston, and while that may have been no herculean leap toward the realm of fashion, it was at least a step ahead—or do you love Cambridge, too.

State Street has been fun. Maybe it hasn't accepted all the color contrapuntals I have tossed it but I never expected it would. Some of Zareh's Creations in fact have come to sudden and violent death but all was not lost since black is no longer the "street's" preference, there being a definite trend now toward gray. Yes, I've sold color, lots and lots of it, and in after days when Ara, the old buzzard, writes my epitaph I hope he will state that fact on the sandstone slab he has promised me. Then if there is a line or two left I hope he will tell posterity that of all the colors I sold the one I loved best was red and that the reddest red I ever sold and therefore the heavenliest memory I took with me was the scarlet corduroy loafer coat I featured for Father's Day in '44.

You should see it. It's positively insulting.

INVASION SHOW Has Oil Fire Swim

How America's gallant seamen battle the hazards of burning oil will be displayed by four Coast Guardsmen as one of the features of the INVASION BOND SHOW presented under joint auspices of the Treasury Department and Boston retail merchants in the Charles River Basin on the afternoon of July Fourth.

This demonstration of actual war conditions will highlight the show which is being staged as a feature of the Fifth War Loan campaign.

Before thousands of spectators, the Coastguardmen, all skilled swimmers, will demonstrate how the trained men of their branch of the service actually have saved themselves and others following U-boat attack.

AVOID BURNS

Each swimmer will wear rubber "duck feet." These web-footed contrivances, adjusted to bare feet, afford greater propulsion. The Coastguardmen will show how, by pushing the burning surface before them, with practiced stroke, and, swimming with the wind, they avoid being burned. They will travel at least 50 yards. The exhibition is fraught with hazards.

Other Coastguardmen will demonstrate how life can be saved by the ingenious use of mere clothing in emergency. Various types of thrilling rescues will be made.

PICKED SQUAD

Spectators, who will be admitted by ticket issued on the purchase of war bonds, also will be treated to Army, Navy and Coast Guard landing maneuvers to show the folks on the home front how our fighting forces are operating in Europe and the Pacific.

A picked squad of men in the Maritime Service will take a prominent part in the three-hour program and typify the expertness and courage of the crews who made history by ignoring the U-boat peril and getting food, supplies and equipment to our far-flung battlefronts.

Weed-Control Battle Now Faces Victory Gardeners

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head, Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Record-American-Sunday Advertiser demonstration garden on Boston Commons.

Weed control, one of the foremost problems of the Victory Gardener with the advent of the hot, summer growing season, now is due to come to the fore as one of the principal chores of all gardeners.

Not until warm weather sets in permanently for the season do the majority of common weeds get started. Now that summer has made its official calender appearance, the presence of these weeds is a good indicator that ideal growing conditions have arrived for tender crops.

The recent showers have done a lot to help V-gardeners. Many seeds are now coming up after a long wait. Hoe or cultivate at once, so the crop will come along fast, and in a few weeks you will never know that the garden was delayed.

HARVESTING CROPS

One of the real values in having your own garden is to get better quality vegetables. For many growers last year was their first experience, and they did not start to use their vegetables soon enough. There is considerable difference between home grown and commercial vegetables, as to the size in which they are harvested. The commercial grower must allow the crop to mature while the home gardener can start using the crop before it is full grown. These small tender vegetables are the ones that have quality. Learn to enjoy them in their best condition.

DAMAGED PLANTS

Some gardeners are now seeing the results of insect damage such as cabbage maggot, flea-beetle and cucumber beetle. Cabbage that has had the roots destroyed will never grow a good head, so it should be pulled and replaced with new plants. These plants set now will not be troubled with the maggot. In some cases I have seen tomato plants that were seriously damaged by the flea beetle. If a plant looks too bad, it might be well to replace it, as there are still some plants available, and now is a good time to set them out.

PLANTS TWISTED

There have been several cases brought to my attention where tomato plants have twisted or rubbed on the bands used for cutworm protection. The wind whips plants around, and there is liable to be some damage to tall plants. If you are going to stake them, start tying them at once. If the cutworms bands are stiff, it is best to remove them after the plant is established.

The question of what to do with Swiss chard that has been attacked by the beet leaf miner, is now coming up. As this insect works inside the leaf, there is no practical way to control it with sprays. If the plants are healthy, cut off the infested leaves, side dress with some complete fertilizer, and the crop will grow back. Thin chard to about 4 inches between plants for good results.

Superbomber Tolls Doom Of Japanese Evil

AMERICA HAS begun to strike at the military, industrial and spiritual heart of Japan.

While the recent bombing of the Japanese mainland was not the first, the memorable Doolittle mission of two years ago having that historic honor, it was accomplished with the deadliest weapon of aerial warfare ever devised.

We must continue to wait for the details of this momentous assault upon Japan.

But we do not have to wait for understanding of its significance.

The great Superbomber employed against Japan has written the doom of Nippon across its own flaming skies.

In one grim stroke it has rolled back the barricades of land and sea, of time and distance, upon which the arrogant, ruthless and barbaric Japanese nation has relied for security.

It has cast the whole scheme of aggressive and brutal war, which the Japanese war lords so recklessly—and so safely, as they supposed—released upon the world, back into their own nursery of evil.

It has unleashed the fury of American power against Japan.

It symbolizes the inexhaustible might and energy and initiative of the American nation.

It has brought not only destruction to Japan, but realization of the ultimate and complete defeat of Japan to the Japanese people themselves, the lowliest and least informed among them.

This magnificent instrument of war is also an instrument of great hope and promise.

America has sent something more than a great bombing plane over Japan.

America has built something finer than a great engine of destruction.

Out of the factories of America, out of the illimitable resources of America, out of the labors, the ingenuity, the faith and spirit and sacrifices of America, has been fashioned an IMPLEMENT OF VICTORY AND PEACE.

THESE ARE the things the Japanese people have seen in the visitation brought upon them by the American Superbomber.

The Japanese people KNOW this today. They know it because the American people against whom they sinned and upon whom they brought an unprovoked war—launched in betrayal and treachery—have risen in their great wrath and vast power.

While the bombing of Japan so far is only the BEGINNING of the ordeal of retribution, the tide of fire and destruction it has started will sweep on until the inevitable end of Japan's dream of hate is achieved and the final price is paid.

Two Million Gift Trees

EVERY DAY can be an Arbor Day in Massachusetts communities this summer.

To improve the appearance of its own reservations and to encourage reforestation the State will distribute more than two million young trees.

Many will be given away, while thousands of others may be obtained for as little as a penny each.

This is a rare opportunity for private citizens to make their property more attractive.

It is also an inducement for all cities and towns to recapture the scenic beauty that distinguished them before their shortsighted street commissioners became obsessed with the delusion that a tree was something to be chopped down and burned.

There is no better or more inspiring monument than a tree—a living thing which grows with the passing years and continues indefinitely to bring pleasure and satisfaction to all who behold it.

Washington Scene . . By George Dixon

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Reproduction in Whole or in Part Strictly Prohibited.)

WASHINGTON, June 21—I might say I am personally very fond of Rep. Robert Hale, of Maine, because he has given me many happy, childish hours.

I have cherished him ever since he became the hero of the great pinching. Consequently, I was deeply upset by the manner in which a Washington newspaper presented the story of his fight for renomination.

The paper stated that his opposition was Andrew A. Pettis, president of the Portland CIO Shipyard Workers' Local. This, however, was all right with me, because I concede that Mr. Pettis has a right to run for anything he chooses.

But, in view of all that has happened, I think the paper could have handled the thing differently.

Either it failed to recall that Rep. Hale has been sensitive since a lady pinched him, or it was guilty of untactfulness, to say the least.

It ran the account under this sub-heading:

"Shipyard Local's Head "Running for Rep. Hale's Seat."

I DO NOT HAVE any inside information, but I wouldn't mind betting that Mrs. John J. Catlett of Tulsa, Democratic national committee-woman from Oklahoma, will not be rooting whole-heartedly for the New Deal when she goes to the Democratic National Convention.

Mrs. Catlett is having a bitter fight with OPA out her way. She refused to obey an OPA order to appear for questioning about the sale of a cat.

It seems that OPA heard that Mrs. Catlett had been going around saying that she knew of a cat that had been sold for $1300, with a tractor thrown in free. There is no OPA ceiling on cats, and OPA got the idea that maybe the cat-tractor deal represented a little finagling.

The story, as credited to Mrs. Catlett, is that some farm machinery was being auctioned and when the auctioneer got to the tractor he also lifted up a cat and said:

"I will now auction off this cat and whoever is the highest bidder will get the tractor free!"

The cat was knocked down for $1300, which is fairly high for cats, and also $470 more than the ceiling that an OPA appraiser had put on the tractor.

MRS. CATLETT said she was "sick and tired of OPA snoopers" and added:

"If they want to grill me, Chester Bowles will have to come and carry me down."

I do not think this is any way to preserve amity in the ranks of democracy, particularly, if Mr. Bowles takes up the challenge. It will look pretty, won't it, to see the OPA head staggering around under the weight of a national committeewoman?

You will note that I refrained from saying that the cat went under the hammer. It seems such a crue. way of putting it. Furthermore putting a cat under a hammer makes a feline cross.

SENATOR WALLGREN, of Washington, went to New Orleans some time ago as a member of the Truman Committee Investigating the War Effort.

With him were Senators Harry Truman of Missouri and Jim Mead of New York. The three solons were entertained by Andrew Jackson Higgins, famous boat-builder, for whom the Higgins landing boats were named.

Truman and Mead discovered that Higgins fancies hmiself as a billiards player. They needled him by remarking that billiards is a kids' game that any dope could pick up in 20 minutes.

"Why," said Senator Mead, "I'll bet you that Wallgren here could beat you—if you showed him how to hold that stick and told him what he was supposed to do."

Higgins blew up. Billiards, he ranted, represented the scientific study of a life time. He snarled he would bet $25 that Wallgren couldn't even make a showing.

Wallgren picked up a cue—by the wrong end.

"No—no—not that way!" snapped Higgins. "This way."

Muttering to himself Higgins made a couple of demonstration shots, explaining the primary idea of the game.

"Is that all?" asked Wallgren. "Just make one ball roll around and bump the others?"

Higgins almost had apoplexy—and Wallgren didn't cool him and by adding:

"Why shouldn't the balls bump each other? What's to stop them?"

Higgins became so incensed he bellowed at Wallgren to go ahead. Wallgren did—and ran out the string!

Higgins stood by—his cue unused—pop-eyed. Then Wallgren confessed. He used to be national amateur balkline champion!

Wallgren won the title in 1929 from Percy Collins, of Chicago, who had held it for many years. The score, as he recalls it, was something like 900 to 800. He lost it the following year to Ray Fessenden of Milwaukee—score 900 to 885.

On the Side . . . . . By E. V. Durling

I've put your clothes away,
Your shoes of brown, a suit of gray
And ties of various hue.
You cannot use them now.
Today you wear the navy blue.
The house seems sort of empty, son,
Though by the door I see your gun,
Your pipe is lying on the stand.
Just as left by your careless hand
The day you went away.
My son, I wait, and waiting pray
You soon will wear your suit of gray,
And shoes of brown. But until you do
God bless the navy blue.
—WINONA INGRAM.

THE BIGGEST little city in the world. That is the slogan of Reno, Nev., which is truly a very lively municipality. Many divorcees and women in Reno for the purpose of getting a divorce are working as dealers in gambling houses. A female gambling house dealer makes $60 a week for the first six months. After that $90 a week. One Reno gambling house employs 60 female dealers, all divorcees or women about to get a divorce.

TAKE YOUR CHOICE: "Losses Small Says Churchill." That is a headline noted after the first day of the invasion of France. At that same time I read an interview a correspondent had with a U. S. Navy man on a French beach. The Navy man was quoted as saying: "If I never see another beach it will be too soon. I never saw so many men die before in my life. They were not grown men either—just kids."

COLORS: What is the color scheme of your living room, bedroom, and place of business? Has color psychology been considered in the selection of the colors? If not, it should have been. Don't you know the wrong colors in a living room can make you depressed and tired? Are you aware that if you have too much yellow in a dining room it will spoil your appetite? However, don't do anything until you hear from me. I am having this matter of color psychology thoroughly checked for the purpose of presenting it briefly in an early issue.

FATHERS, ETC.: "Are These Our Parents" is the title of a juvenile delinquency film. Evidently this cinema sermon places the blame on both father and mother. In the past, poor Papa was blamed for everything. Remember the song "Everybody Works But Father?" Then there was the tear jerking classic, "Father Dear, Come Home to Us Now," in which the pater was depicted as a worthless drunkard. O. Henry wrote a powerful story dealing with juvenile delinquency. He blamed the father, too. This blaming of the pappy has been going on for some time as 2000 years ago it was said: "When the child swore Diogenes struck the father."

LOOKING FORWARD: Well, soldier, what are you going to do for a living after the war? How about being a fur farmer? Profits of this activity are good and the original investment can be small. The four Froom brothers of Hamburg, Wis., have a farm on which there are 40,000 silver foxes. They started with three foxes. Silver fox pelts sell from $25 to $300. A silver fox has one blessed event a year, with an average of four pups to a litter. Breeding minks is a good business, too, but haven't much detail on that now. Raising chinchillas is also profitable, but nerve wracking. The chinchilla is a very delicate animal. However, the number is increasing so rapidly that in a few years it will be possible to buy a chinchilla coat for as little as $10,000. Make a note of that. You will probably want to buy your wife a chinchilla coat for her birthday in 1948.

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 21—Robert Leonard, who has been with M-G-M since 1924 and is as much a part of the studio as the buildings themselves, took time out to reminisce on the 20th anniversary of his company.

Robert, who has just been assigned to direct and act as associate producer on "Thrill of a Romance," which Joe Pasternak is producing, said: "When I was to direct 'Her Cardboard Lover,' starring Marion Davies, an extra asked me for a job. His name is Clark Gable and that was one of his first pictures. Later he was in 'Susan Lennox,' opposite Joan Crawford. I did the first test of Greta Garbo after she arrived from Sweden."

Bob's first M-G-M picture was "Circe, the Enchantress." Bob says he is celebrating his anniversary, too. He is one of the best loved men on the lot, and there isn't an important M-G-M star he hasn't directed.

BRIAN DONLEVY yearns to play George Washington, the father of his country. Ever since he made "American Romance" he has been partial to these movies with patriotic backgrounds. He has been corresponding with Howard Fast to try and buy "The Unvanquished," Fast's novel based on Washington's early campaigns in the Revolutionary War. I am told unofficially that Brian will be an Academy contender for his performance in "American Romance"—he's that good.

JOSEPH SCHILDKRAUT, who received an Academy Award for his unforgettable Dreyfuss role in "Emile Zola," hasn't made a picture in four years. Now he is coming back to play John Wayne's rival in "The Flame of the Barbary Coast" at Republic. Sometimes I think Academy Awards are jinxed—look at Luise Rainer. She won the award two years in succession, and has had more hard luck than any girl I know. Joe has done well on the stage, but he left the cast of "Cherry Orchard," the play in which he appeared with Eve Le Gellienne, to come West to do the movie. They all prefer movies!

WHEN NEXT you hear from me I shall be writing you news of the Republican convention in Chicago. I hope to pick up some interesting data and to have a story on the wire as soon as possible. While I am going political, Dorothy Manners, my assistant, will write the column. She will give you all the Hollywood spot news, and I know you will like her. I want to meet all the candidates—Governors Dewey, Bricker, Stassen, and all the other presidential timber, before I tell about them. These are serious days and the Republican nominee must be a statesman as well as a good handshaker.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: There's a lot of chitchat that Ginger Rogers has kicked up her heels and refused to come back to the Selznick studio to finish "Double Furlough." I checked with Daniel O'Shea and he said the rumor was entirely unfounded—that they had promised to finish with Ginger by May 25 and that when they didn't finish they gave her a month off and she has gone back to her ranch in Oregon and will be back June 25. Joe Cotton, too, was badly in need of a rest, he said, so they let him off. "Of course, that will delay the release of the picture, but when people are so tired," said O'Shea, "they can't very well work." How right he is!

I DON'T KNOW when I've met a more charming girl than Martha Tilton, who went with me to the Douglas Long Beach plant when I christened the "Louella" C-47. Martha sang so beautifully and the 20,000 men and women we met during their lunch hour couldn't have been a more appreciative audience when Martha sang, and later when I told them a few little stories about Hollywood. This day goes down in my memory book as one of the most thrilling of my life. There was a lump in my throat when I saw the "Louella." They told me she would take off with supplies and bring back our wounded within 48 hours, and that means that she has probably landed on her errand of mercy.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Paula Stone, who has been living so quietly since the death of her husband in action over Germany a year ago, has been seen out for the first time in New York with Lt. Jack Gregory. Everyone feels so sorry for Paula, who was so in love with her good-looking husband, Joan Fontaine and Paul Hesse, went on a fishing trip Sunday and returned in time for Bob Cumming's birthday dinner; George Sanders built himself a huge telescope and when someone asked him why such a big one he replied, "the better to see the blondes"; John Hodiak hasn't been out with Lana Turner once since it was printed that she was the favorite girl in his life. He is escorting June Allyson to the "White Cliffs of Dover" opening; Flower Cregan, Jackie's ex-wife, is playing a Wave in "Be It Ever So Humble"; Ted Saucier's book, "Gore and Glory," went on the stands June 19 with a fine sale, when Wahda Winchell was eight years old she used to go to Shirley Temple's birthday parties. The two girls are the same age Now they are 16 years old and still friends, and looked very cute lunching together the other day at one of the smart spots; Judith Evelyn, who played the Ingrid Bergman role in "Angel Street," the stage version of "Gaslight," is visiting in Pasadena at the home of the Movan Pedelfords; Lotte Goslar, famous comedienne and dancer, opens next Monday night at the Assistance League Theater, presented by Wynn Rocamora; Jack Singler, on an airplane carrier, appeals for an electric percolator, holding six or eight cups of coffee, since it's impossible to buy one and the night watches are long Have you one you aren't using?; It is now Lt. Choice Dishes With Evaporated Milk

By MARTHA LEE

IN SPITE of food rationing in this country, there are many bright spots. For instance, for several weeks we have been able to get many canned foods point-free; most meats are unrationed, and shortenings are off ration. Also, the point values on many other foods have been reduced, which is a blessing to those whose points are figured very closely.

Now comes more good news for homemakers! Until the first of July, one red ration token will buy two tall cans or four small cans of evaporated milk. This means that evaporated milk can be used more liberally in meal preparation.

In addition to fine flavor and texture, evaporated milk contributes to foods all the important nutrients found in whole milk—plus vitamin D with which it has been enriched. These tempting recipe suggestions will help increase the food value of everyday meals.

GREEN BEAN LUNCHEON SALAD

1 No. 2 can green beans
1 small onion, chopped fine
3 medium carrots, grated
½ head lettuce, coarsely chopped
Cooked or canned tongue or luncheon meat, cut in thin strips
½ cup sour cream dressing

Drain the beans, saving liquid for soup or gravy. Toss beans, onions, carrots, lettuce and tongue together lightly. Pour sour cream dressing over ingredients and toss to mix well. Chill until ready to serve. Makes 6 servings.

SOUR CREAM DRESSING

½ tsp. dry mustard
½ tsp. salt
1½ tbsp. irradiated evaporated milk

Mix mustard, salt and vinegar. Stir slowly into milk. Sugar may be added if desired. Makes ½ cup dressing.

MUSTARD SAUCE FOR MEAT, FISH OR VEGETABLES

½ cup sugar 1 tbsp flour
2 tsp. dry mustard
½ cup vinegar
1 cup irradiated evaporated milk

Mix sugar, flour and mustard thoroughly in top of double boiler. Stir in vinegar, then the milk. Cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring occasionally. Serve with meat or fish. Good also with egg or cheese dishes and such vegetables as green beans, cabbage, spinach, asparagus, beets and broccoli. Makes 1¼ cups sauce.

DEVILED EGG AND NOODLE CASSEROLE

1 4½-oz. pkg. broad noodles
6 hard-cooked eggs
Prepared mustard
Salt and pepper
Vinegar
Irradiated evaporated milk
1½ tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
1 cup water drained from noodles
1 cup irradiated evaporated milk
Grated cheese, if desired
2 cups soft bread crumbs mixed with 2 tbsp. melted butter

Drop noodles into boiling, salted water and boil briskly until tender. Drain and save water for sauce. Rinse noodles with hot water. Place in buttered casserole or individual baking dishes. Cut eggs in halves. Remove yolks. Mash and season with mustard, salt, pepper and a little vinegar. Add evaporated milk to moisten. Fill whites with this mixture. Place deviled eggs on noodles. Melt butter. Blend in flour. Add salt and liquid from noodles and cook until sauce begins to thicken. Add milk and continue cooking until thickened, stirring constantly. Pour sauce over eggs and noodles. Top with grated cheese and buttered crumbs. Brown in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.). Makes 6 servings.

ICED MOCHA

5 tbsp. cocoa 5 tbsp. sugar
⅛ tsp. salt
⅛ cup hot water
1 cup ice water
1 2-3 cups irradiated evaporated milk
1½ cups strong cold coffee

Blend cocoa, sugar and salt. Add hot water and tsir until smooth. Cook slowly over low heat 2 or 3 minutes, or until mixture is thick and creamy. Cool. Then add the 1 cup ice water, the milk and coffee. Whisk with an egg beater and pour over crushed ice. Makes 6 servings.

Dry Perfume Freshens

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

WHEN YOU DRAW OUT a hanky or a bit of frilly lingerie . . . don't you like to have it enticingly scented? Doesn't it kind of perk you up for the day with that poised feeling of savoir faire?

All that you have to do . . . is sprinkle your dresser drawers with a dry perfume . . . and your feminine lovelies will be as fresh and fragrant as the country-side . . . for this dry perfume has perennial freshness for you and the things you wear.

Patting it on afresh in the morning . . . or when dressing for the evening . . . is complete protection from wearing the stale scent of old or spent perfume. And, if you're a beach devotee . . . you'll find yourself completely enveloped in its fragrant delight always.

When you select those crisp cool cotton frocks . . . or soft willowy crepes . . . or the abbreviated swim suit for the warm days and evenings ahead . . . and we'll have plenty of them, never fear . . . the choice of this something different in perfume can be a most effective accent.

This victory package . . . instead of a flacon . . . of dry perfume comes in six distinctive odors . . . and has many welcome advantages in its own right . . . as well as those comparable to liquid perfume. It can be lightly rubbed on the skin . . . behind the ear, on the neck, arms and hands for fetching allure . . . much more freely, too, because, naturally, it is much less expensive than the liquid form. It is only a dollar for two packages.

And, applied directly to the skin, it gives an aura of delicate fragrance that carries right through the day and evening. It makes such a good traveler, too. It can be carried in the handbag, overnight case . . . without the slightest danger of breakage or spillage. This virtue alone makes it the perfect gift for war brides . . . service-gals . . . war workers and others moving from place to place . . . or living largely out of bags and trunks.

And, just a personal tip . . . do as I do . . . use it as a deodorant . . . patting its fine white powder under the arms for fastidious delicacy. Blue carnation, flowers of love, night of delight, le jade, violet and sandalwood . . . which ever odor you select . . . will give you that simply grand feeling of just right grooming.

For the name of this dry perfume, modestly priced, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ALTHOUGH CURVACEOUS and beautiful Columbia Star Evelyn Keyes displays a neat set of gams . . . it is the charm and freshness of the entire picture she presents that we're concerned with . . . a freshness which comes from using a dry perfume that gives off an aura of feminine loveliness. A neat trick is slip some of the dry perfume on the hair for a top-heavenly accent of charm.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleano Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Tuesday—Conscientious objectors feel that Great Britain has become "more enlightened" than the United States, since many of them have been able to pursue their own vocations, or do the work they have chosen for the nation during the war period.

The British conscientious objectors feel that they have been more useful and that they are treated with greater intelligence by their government, and this opinion is shared by conscientious objectors here.

I cannot help feeling sorry for honest conscientious objectors, for I am sure many a young man must find it bitter to let other young men of his own age fight and die and give up time in occupations they care little about.

* * *

IT IS TRUE conscientious objectors have earned and saved much money for the government. It is true they have made the lives of patients in state hospitals more bearable than they have ever been before.

It is true that those who are willing to work in factories or military medical establishments, and some of them actually in danger zones or in the field of battle, have done heroic deeds and are fine people. But they are doing what they want to do.

THEY ARE NOT the same kind of citizens as the the men in the armed services. For this reason, Congress has not appropriated money to pay them or to help their dependents on the same basis as the men drafted into the armed services.

It is hard on the families, but that is the price of doing what one believes in. Some men go to prison and will not do anything during the period of war, and that again is the price of doing what you believe in. When the day arrives when war is no more, these men may feel that they have hastened it.

In the meantime, however, as the world is constituted today, they might not be alive or they might be slaves to other more warlike people if some of their brothers were not willing to defend them against other warlike peoples.

How to Wear Corsage

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN: On which shoulder should a single or an unmarried woman wear a corsage?

EDNA.

It doesn't make any difference whether a woman is married or unmarried, or whether she wears her corsage on her left or right shoulder or at the center of her neckline or any other place she thinks it most glamorous, so long as she wears the flowers with the blossoms up, the way they grow.

Dress Needs Bit of Softness

By BETTINA BEDWELL

NOW is the time when the dress steps out by itself, without any coat, jacket or cape. And there are ladies who feel just a little skimpy in their very legal, but narrow line, dresses. For such, and they are right to feel that way if they have any extra flesh, I suggest dresses with enough softness to them to make up for the absence of the softening wrap.

One of these is the apron dress, which does such nice things to your silhouette. I have chosen a model of this kind as an example. This one comes from that very good designer, Lyolene, and is a dress for a heat wave, for it is made of black chiffon printed with clear green and looks cool as a mint frappe.

The apron is not very full, but enough to make the skirt very graceful. Parts of the green design are cut out and appliqued to make a border at the hem.

Coming Out Party

By BETTY ALDEN

MRS. THOMAS HILL SHEPARD of Brookline is giving a coming out party this afternoon in honor of her debutante granddaughter, Barbara Barrows, and the latter's sister deb, Jean M. MacDill. The girls are daughters of Col. and Mrs. Ralph Barrows and Mrs. Leslie MacDill and the late Col. MacDill of Brookline.

Pink peonies and roses from Mrs. Shepard's garden decorate the tea table. The pourers are Mrs. Thomas White, Mrs. J. Oliver Beebe, Mrs. Donald T. Carlisle, Mrs. I. Minot Shepard, Mrs. Dorothea Bassett and Mrs. Ralph DuBois.

The girls are receiving in gay summer dresses—Barbara's a pink and white print trimmed with black velvet ribbon, and Jean's a pale pink crepe. The former graduated from Walnut Hill, and is a volunteer at Children's Hospital. Jean is a graduate of Milton Academy.

Yesterday they were among the 75 or more debutantes attending the luncheon for Jeanne Barstow and Barbara Morss at the Copley Plaza.

asked us what debs have to eat at parties nowadays that we made note of the menu at the Barstow-Morss luncheon. To begin with tomato juice was served during the reception in a small parlor decorated with the many lovely floral tokens sent to the hostesses. Then the guests adjourned to a small mirrored ballroom where they sat at flower-trimmed tables and enjoyed a simple menu of fruit cup, fried chicken, green salad, ice cream and demi tasse.

Among the many guests was Alison Kelsey, a brunette beauty in a cranberry red tweed suit who came with Frances Walker, a petite blonde in powder blue tweed.

Instead of wearing her heart on her sleeve, Patricia Thompson has a Navy insignia embroidered on one arm of her dark blue reefer and a couple of red and white enamel signal pins on her lapel. She came to the party with Jane Alles and Jane Goodale, who wore a nifty red and white plaid cotton suit.

Eleanor Pingree of Weston, tanned and peppy after a sailing vacation on the Cape, came with Ann Sargent of Chestnut Hill. The latter had worked up a healthy appetite during the morning on her volunteer job at the Boston Dispensary. She wore a modish black crepe and black beanie trimmed with white pique bows.

Miriam Jeffries arrived with Barbara Lane whose initials in red and white enamel were emblazoned on her black purse. Mary Freeman carried a fetching pocketbook of black and white checked taffeta lined with scarlet and wore a novel pair of earrings made of silver hearts. Her dress was black with ruffled white organdie under her chin.

Sabra Harwood's blonde hair was held in place by a black velvet band with white flowers over each ear, and Sarah Pass was adorable in a white flower half hat and gray pin stripe suit. Others were June Rockwell, Rachel Rock, Margaret Thayer, Anne Perkins, Pandy Withington, Molly Coulter, Phyllis DeFeo, Barbara Rogerson and Fiona Monroe.

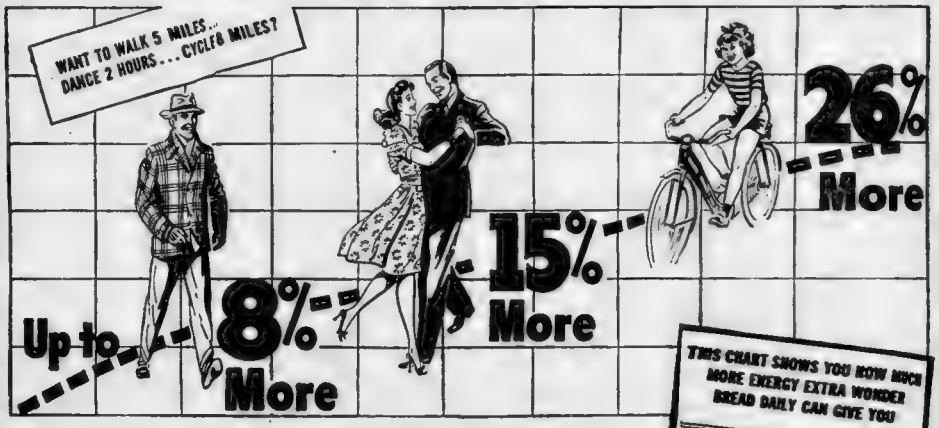
How to Step Up ENERGY



How This Energy-Charged Wonder Bread Can Give You All The Extra Energy You Want

Contains Vitamins of the B Complex and Iron Your Body Needs To Help Get All The Energy Out of It

As you know, energy comes only from the food you eat. Thus, to get more energy—eat more energy food.

To get energy out of food, Nature must have the help of Vitamins B_1 and B_2 and Iron.

The two vitamins help to oxidize the food in the cells to get the energy out of it. The Iron in your blood acts to bring the oxygen to the cells.

Study the chart. Then eat the extra number of slices of energy-charged Wonder Bread every day to get the extra amount of energy you want.

GET VITAMINS, IRON

When you eat energy-charged Wonder Bread you know it contains Vitamins B_1 and B_2 and Iron which you know are necessary to help Nature transform it into energy properly.

And only Wonder Bread is sold under $1,000 guarantee of continual tests of Vitamin B_1 content.

Only WONDER BREAD Makes This $1,000 Vitamin B_1 Guarantee

Regular laboratory tests of typical loaves of Wonder White Bread show an average Vitamin B_1 content substantially in excess of the minimum requirements as recommended for bread by the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

We will pay $1,000 to any charitable organization named by the citizen of the United States first to disprove the above statement.

Continental Baking Co., Inc.

DOUBLY FRESH

In addition, energy-charged Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it, fresh when you eat it.

Because Wonder Bread is slo-baked—15% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

For extra energy, eat extra slices of energy-charged Wonder Bread every day. Serve your husband and children extra Wonder Bread, too.

Get Wonder Bread fresh from your grocer today. You'll be glad you did.

THIS CHART SHOWS YOU HOW MUCH MORE ENERGY EXTRA WONDER BREAD DAILY CAN GIVE YOU

Soldier Daddy From Brookline

Ted Leavitt, of the Brookline Leavitts and well-known Broadway actor, is the new soldier daddy of "3 Is a Family," the Colonial's hilarious hit. He should feel at home in the role vacated by George Calvert, now in the Army, since he is a Purple Heart veteran of the U. S. Marines. Following extensive action in the Guadalcanal area, Leavitt was hospitalized for six months.

Back in 1936–'37, before he turned actor, young Leavitt had been assistant to Professor Frederick C. Packard in Harvard dramatics.

NEW YORK, June 21—Manhattan Glitter: Gertrude Niesen at Toots Shor's looking ever so gam-orous in brief black culottes studded with white sequins . . . Whazzat, Gertie—something new? . . . Lt. Com. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., looking many pounds plumper, at the Monte Carlo ring-side. He's most girls' notion of what a movie idol should look like . . . June Havoc leaving the Winter Garden with her daughter, April—who, without benefit of publicity, now appears in the market scene in "Mexican Hayride" . . . Lana Turner—blonde minx in blonde lynx—spreading oodles of oomph around the Cotillion Room . . . Ruth Gordon on West 47th St., directing two Spars to the Music Hall . . . Linda Darnell natty in her khaki USO uniform, doing the fun-spots with her old pals, the Wesson Brothers . . . Kathleen Norris scribbling on the back of a menu at the Chateaubriand.

A CONTINGENT of giggling bobby-soxers walked into Toffenetti's the other day and, with gales of giggles, consummated the purchase of a huge custard pie. The leader of the group explained: "We gotta throw it at the comedian of our school play!" . . . Wilbur Evans, in need of medical attention has withdrawn from "Mexican Hayride" for a spell and has been replaced by Bob Tavis, a newcomer, who has the talent scouts agog over his first Broadway appearance . . . Vincent Lopez turned down a four-figure offer to write the "true" story of Betty Hutton's rise to fame for a national magazine . . . Lopez, who discovered and named her, prefers to stay out of the picture completely, now that she's a big star. But he wistfully wishes that she'd stop putting him in the stories she gives out—because he claims she's never once had the facts straight.

THE MIDNIGHT BEAT: Jack Kirkland, with ex-wife Nancy Carroll, present wife Halla Stoddard, and daughter Patricia, letting palmist Diana figure it all out for him at the 1-2-3 . . . Peggy Hopkins Joyce, wearing gardenias in her hair, standing up at long Monte Carlo bar . . . Peter Lorre having hysterics over Jackie Gleason's impersonation of Peter Lorre at the Copacabana . . . Betty Grable hipnotizing the Rainbow Loungers . . . Morton Downey at the Stork keeping cool with a new concoction—raisin ice cream and soda pop! . . .

During the making of "The Story of Dr. Wassell," Gary Cooper was confronted by a Navy commander.

"You're always been something of a hero of mine," said the latter, "and I'd appreciate your autograph."

"I'll swap you," said Cooper, reaching for a script of the picture.

Thus movie hero Gary Cooper and Naval hero Comdr. Corydon M. Wassell solemnly inscribed their names and swapped!

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, July 21—The other night I went to a dress rehearsal of a play at a little theater. All I knew was the name of the play, and the fact that it was to be given on Highland, between Hollywood blvd. and Franklin ave. After all, how many little theaters can there be on that block?

That's what this story is about. Not the play, which I finally saw and wasn't much, but the number of theaters on this block presenting amateur plays. Every building that I entered had a group of performers putting on a play. There were plays being performed in empty stores, actors and actresses rehearsing in every apartment, some with no stages and some with improvised stages.

I walked up one flight in the building where I thought the play I wanted to see was being performed and inquired. "No," said the woman who was the dramatic coach, "we're just starting here. But across the hall, down a bit, they're doing a Chinese play. Maybe that's the one you want?" I told her that it wasn't, but I walked down to look in anyway. There I saw a fully equipped stage and a number of actors and actresses pretending to be Chinese getting ready to do a play.

"Sit down," said the dramatic coach, a young fellow who looked as if he had just stepped out of the chorus of a musical comedy. "We're going to give the show tonight and we're trying to get an audience."

I TOLD HIM the name of the play I was looking for. He appeared very downcast. "Oh," he said, "that theater you'll find on the other side of the street, about half a block down. But I do wish you would stay here."

I thanked him and started. On the other side of the street, about half a block down, I saw a number of boys and girls seated about a large round table. A boy and girl, with scripts in their hands, were standing on the table reading lines. The table was their stage. I entered. Without the proceedings stopping, a girl said to me: "You want the theater that's in the back and up one flight. We've had more people tonight."

I thanked her. "We'll be ready a couple of nights from now," she said. "If you're doing nothing come around."

I'M NOT GOING to tell you about the play, except to say that if anyone in the audience spoke, you couldn't tell whether it was dialogue from the play that's how close both were), except for the fact that the dialogue of the audience was often better.

The thing that amazed me was the number of small theaters on this block alone (and they are scattered throughout Hollywood), and the number of boys and girls who devote night after night to earnest work in these bandbox theaters, and what's more, in many instances, pay for the privilege of appearing in these plays, for they are courses in instruction.

They study and work in these plays because they hope to learn their craft and to be discovered by a talent scout for pictures.

Boston After Dark

ARLENE FRANCIS IS A BROOKLINE GIRL, we now learn and, it must be admitted, somewhat tardily . . . The fact of Miss Francis' local origin would have percolated to this desk earlier if the New York company of "The Doughgirls" had happened to play Boston . . . But it didn't . . . And Miss Francis' great triumph in the role of the Russian sharpshooter was witnessed only by those Bostonians who happened to "catch" the original company of the show on Broadway.

ARLENE IS THE YOUNG LADY who is headed this way as the mistress of ceremony and motivating force of the show called "Blind Date" . . . This popular novelty was conceived as a radio attraction . . . With Miss Francis as the go-between, the show conducts a contest between men in uniform for the privilege of keeping a "blind date" with some lovely models . . . (All under proper chaperonage, of course) . . . The Boston RKO staff is going all-out in making "Blind Date" a noon-to-midnight occasion for the seven days beginning tomorrow in which Miss Francis and her troupe are playing at the Keith-Boston.

IN HIS NEW CAPACITY of managing director of a luxury hotel, Leo Reisman, the maestro, will convoy a group of Boston friends to Dixville Notch, N. H., this week-end . . . The Reisman hotel is none other than The Balsams, where—according to a report accepted as fact in literary circles—the great inspiration for his famous Shangri-la, the never-never land of "Lost Horizons," dawned on James Hilton . . . The Balsams will open a new supper room, known as "The 10 O'Clock Club," Sunday night . . . A Leo Reisman orchestra will play for dancing, with the maestro (in person) leading the unit in its debut.

CASEY ROBINSON, A LEADING MEMBER of that fabulous class, "Hollywood writers," would be this column's nominee for "most handsome" among the cinema scriveners . . . Like so many of his brethren in the writing departments of the movie factories, Mr. Robinson "used to be a newspaperman himself"—in Salt Lake City . . . He is in Boston in the interest of the film, "Days of Glory," which he wrote and produced for RKO . . . The West Coast chatter columns have told recently of an impending marital split-up in the Robinson menage, and more than a hint has been made of Casey's romantic interest in Toumanova (accent on the second syllable) . . . Toumanova is the wide-eyed Russian former ballet dancer who is starred with Gregory Peck in "Days of Glory" . . . Toumanova and Mr. Robinson are in Boston, making personal appearances together, as part of the ballyhoo of "Days of Glory."

ANN LESTER, at the Mayfair, includes a repertory of "oldies" in her routine, and "Take Me Out to the Ball Game," "By the Light of the Silvery Moon," and "Dear Old Girl" sung in modern rhythm are unbelievably entertaining . . . Miss Lester's song about the happy little Russian peasant girl of the postwar period gets the best result . . . The Russians are getting real attention by the Tin Pan Alley tunesmiths these days.

ONE OF THE CLOCKS in Copley Square, which has two churches where the time is tolled hourly, runs two seconds faster than its neighbor . . . We understand that this is deliberate in order that the two sets of bells do not overlap . . . But for the past few nights, the late set of bells are disappointing their few fans (including this one) . . . They do not strike after two o'clock in the morning . . . Three, four, five, six and seven o'clock all are represented by two strokes of the automatic bellringer . . . At eight o'clock in the morning, the recalcitrant church bells resume their daily routine of tolling, the time, but accurately . . . It puzzles us.

Pope Blesses British And French Soldiers

NEW YORK (AP)—Pope Pius XII gave an audience to 4000 soldiers of the British Eighth Army, the Vatican radio said. Another group of British soldiers, unable to crowd into the Hall of Blessing, listened to the Pope's address through loud-speakers.

The broadcast, reported by U. S. monitors, said the Pope also spoke to a group of French soldiers and gave an audience earlier in the day to 50 British Army chaplains.

Pep to Meet Joyce Before Boston Fight

By JACK CONWAY

WILLIE PEP, world's featherweight champion, has mapped out one of the busiest ring campaigns ever attempted by a ring star. He will box twice a month against the best available opponents. His first Boston appearance under this program will find Pep opposing the winner of the Manuel Ortiz-Larry Bolvin bout at National League Park on July 17.

Willie Pep

Ten days earlier Pep will clash with Willie Joyce of South Bend, Ind., at Chicago under the direction of Jack Kearns. Joyce recently gained national ring standing when he outscored Hammering Henry Arm strong in Chicago. Pep will be spotting Joyce considerable weight, but he believes he has the boxing class to beat him.

Joyce is one of the few boxers who have been able to upset Armstrong, Joyce is a fast, shifty boxer and hits well with each hand. Following his defeat by Joyce, Armstrong went to New York where he knocked out "Bummy" Davis in two rounds.

The Joyce bout should make Pep razor sharp for his clash with either Ortiz or Bolvin at National League Park. Pep's title will not be at stake in either the Chicago or Boston bouts. Later in the summer Pep will risk his featherweight crown against either Ortiz or Bolvin in this city under the promotion of Eddie Mack and Jack O'Brien.

The Disabled Veterans Fund of the American-Record-Sunday Advertiser will receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the Ortiz-Bolvin bout, which takes place at National League Park on June 29.

Ott Record

NEW YORK, June 21 (INS) —Mel Ott, who has hoisted the New York Giants from seventh place to third in three weeks, tied a 27-year-old National League record yesterday when he scored in the first inning of his club's 7 to 6 loss to the Brooklyn Dodgers.

That run was the 1740th tally for the New York pilot, and equalled the mark strung up in the senior loop by Honus Wagner. Honus set the mark in three years with the Louisville club (1897-99); and 18 years with Pittsburgh (1900-1917).

Coleman Shoots Works In Phils' Double-Header

By BILL GRIMES

It's been three days since the Braves have been in action, so Manager Bob Coleman expects them to put their best feet forward this afternoon when they play a double-header against Freddie Fitzsimmons' Phillies at the Wigwam.

MAYBE OLD JERRY AT THAT WITH MORE HAIR—Larry Bolvin, who boxes Manuel Ortiz at National League Field June 29, is shown caring for his pet horse at his Covington, R. I. training camp. The horse looks suspiciously like "Jerry," the hairy Boston workhorse, which took such a terrific beating four years ago when 350-pound Chief Marshal "Knocko" McCormack led the March 17 parade in South Boston.

On their last time out the Braves came up with one of the poorest exhibitions of the season. Their performances against the New York Giants last Sunday were travesties on the national pastime.

"We've been very spotty for the past two weeks," confessed Manager Bob Coleman, after he had put his charges through a stiff workout yesterday afternoon. "On our visit to New York, Brooklyn and Philadelphia the trouble was with our defense. It sure let our pitchers down. But in three of the four games we have played at home the pitching was responsible for the three defeats.

"Naturally, I'm anxious to register a few wins. I'm unable to get any solace out of the fact that we have lost many games by one run. A defeat, whether it is by a one or a ten-run margin, is still a defeat in my book.

"I'm going to give the Phillies the best I have this afternoon, Al Javery and Jim Tobin. True, it is "Red" Barrett's turn to pitch, but I decided to hold him over for a future date."

On the last Braves' trip, games which "Red" Barrett was scheduled to pitch in Brooklyn and Philadelphia were washed out. Then, when "Red" went to the hilltop the following days, first the Dodgers and then the Phillies did a job on him. It probably was with that thought in mind, that Manager Coleman decided to shelve Barrett today and go with Javery, who pitched the Braves to the only victory they have come up with on this home stay.

Manager Freddie Fitzsimmons, naturally, would like to go with Ken Raffensberger and Al Gerhauser, his southpaws, who have compiled an excellent record against the Braves this season. But, Fitz' star portsiders, pitched on Sunday against the Dodgers and may need more than a two-day rest.

So, it looks like Dick "Kewpie" Barrett and Bill Lee will do the hurling for the Phillies this afternoon. Although they were unable to deliver for the Cubs early last season, Barrett and Lee have helped the Phillies. Both rate highly with Manager Fitzsimmons.

Melrose High Aces College Foes Soon

Remember Coach Dave Gavin's co-state championship football team of last fall at Melrose High School—the club that ran wild on the ground and through the air against all sorts of competition? Well, of the starting eleven, only four will be back next season to try to carry on the undefeated tradition of their Holy Cross grad.

As a matter of fact, it wouldn't be surprising if some of the boys from the 1943 gridders will be playing against each other if college football is carried on this year.

Coach Gavin's alma mater will be gaining where Melrose loses out—and not through the influence of the Red Raiders' coach. Walter Sheridan, the kid who has been tabbed by Gavin as a better schoolboy passer than the famed Angelo Bertelli of Notre Dame, when the latter played with Springfield Cathedral, and Andy Williams, a rip-roaring guard, have been assigned to Holy Cross in the V-5 program. And Leo Troy, an All-Scholastic end only 17-years old, has enrolled with the Purple still in civilian status.

Carl Ward, giant tackle and captain of the team, has won a scholarship to Dartmouth where he'll be tuning up for the Air Corps. Mal Allen, the other guard, has been assigned to Harvard in the V-12 course.

It's quite possible that the group will be holding re-unions on different sides of the line of scrimmage come fall.

Bob McGrath, clever wingman, and George Soule, a smashing back, have moved to other points in the U. S. McGrath is with the Army Air Corps while Soule has chipped in with the Marines.

Another edition of the Sports Blotter, a one-page tabloid for Everett boys in the armed forces, has been forwarded by editor John F. Boy with some local items . . . Boy notes that three Everett lettermen have given their lives in this war—Lt. Carl Stein, 1932, Lt. Warren Hussey, 1937, and Pvt. George Cormier, 1942 . . . two others, Sgt. Robert Florentino, 1940, and Lt. James Lombardi, 1938, have been reported missing in action.

Can a coach prove his ability in a single season? . . . that's what Tom Lynch, newly appointed mentor of Somerville High School, will be up against next fall when he takes over the top job, moving up from the assistant's berth, with the football team . . . it's too late for spring training now, so that he'll have the tough task of installing his own system, getting the boys lined up and all other coaching details to handle in the few short weeks of preparation next fall . . . why not give Coach Lynch a little time to prove his ability with a longer contract?—MIKE GILLOOLY.

Sox Ancients Star

Just when Joe Cronin and his Red Sox were on the threshold of first place, ready to make a flossy entrance, two old Sox players, cast-offs, so to speak, rose and crashed their hopes. When the Sox dropped last night's double-header to the lowly Athletics, 5 to 4 and 5 to 0, it was none other than Ford Garrison and "Bobo" Newsome who did the trick.

Garrison went on a burglary mission in the first game, robbing the Sox of hits, right and left, deep and close, as he roamed around the outfield. Then that silent one Bobo Newsom, who is said to even talk in his sleep, gave the Sox two hits in the night cap.

To add a little New England discomforture to the Sox's feelings Dick Siebert, a native of Fall River, opened the 11th opener with a double and scored the winning run on Busch's single.

Meanwhile the St. Louis were splitting even with the Chicago Sox. As a result of this double setback for the Sox they are now 1½ games away from the Brownie leaders. Both the Browns and Red Sox play single games tonight, the Croninmen against the A's and St. Louis at night against the White Sox.

Ex-Ice Champion Performing Here

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Four-time national speed skating champion Bobby McLean has the local citizenry thinking in cooler and lighter veins as a member of the International Ice Revue being featured nightly at the Hotel Touraine.

The talkative Scotch descendant has been on the blades for the past 35 years, but his talent for entertainment was never more pronounced than in his comedy act in this show.

McLean first broke into sports news in 1910 when he captured his first speed skating crown. He successfully defended his crown for the following three years and then became the only skater ever to defeat Oscar Mathieson, Norway titlist, in Europe. Since that time, McLean has been touring the U. S., has seen service as a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy in the last war and he served a 10-year hitch with the famous Keith show circuit in comedy work.

He tried to enlist at the outbreak of this war but the Navy authorities ruled him out. So he spends a great deal of his time doing the USO rounds, devoting all this past winter in entertaining at Army and Navy bases.

McLean's first love is ice skating, as his experiences with Everett McGowan, Bess Ehrhardt, the Shipstead brothers and Oscar Johnson will well testify, but in skill, his golfing comes very close to his ice perfection. McLean is a four-handicap stroker in Chicago, his home town now although of New England parentage, and his annual entry in the famous Tam O'Shanter Tourney is one of the regulars.

His troupe of fancy ice-cutters has completed a 14-week run in Philadelphia and will undoubtedly be held over in Boston.

All-Notre Dame Hanover Staff

HANOVER, N. H., June 21—William H. McCarter, director of athletics, announced today the signing of Walter M. Marshall, Notre Dame, 1938, as Dartmouth varsity line coach for the coming season. Marshall was a Notre Dame guard for three years and was a teammate of Head Coach Earl Brown in 1936 and 1937.

For the past three seasons Marshall has been head football coach at Northeast Catholic High in Philadelphia.

He is married and has two children, Frances, 2 years and 10 months, and Alice, 5 months. His appointment gives Dartmouth an all-Notre Dame coaching staff, since Milt Piepul will return as backfield coach under Head Coach Brown.

HAVE YOU GOT "WHAT'S-THE-USE*ITIS*"?

This common affliction, brought on by the whiskey shortage, has these symptoms: listlessness, discouragement, trembling before barmen and liquor store dealers, and paralysis of the vocal cords when it comes to asking for a fine, prewar quality whiskey. Watch out! It leads to getting no Carstairs White Seal whiskey! And that's bad. It's unnecessary, too—because a fair supply IS available. But you've got to ask for it—and keep asking till you get it. Better start treating yourself today!

Everybody's Happy—An elderly French woman in the village of Ste. Mere Eglise throws back her head and laughs heartily during a conversation with an American paratrooper M. P., who is sampling a bit of madame's best "vin ordinaire." The picture typifies the friendly feeling that exists between natives and their liberators in all war-torn countries.
